

XL TRANSLATOR'S WEEK AND III INTERNATIONAL TRANSLATION SYMPOSIUM

Plurality in translation: social and professional aspects

1st Newsletter

São José do Rio Preto, May 3rd, 2021.

In its 40th edition, the Translator's Week, a scientific meeting organized since the 1980s by students and professors of the bachelor's degree in Letters and Translation Studies at UNESP, São José do Rio Preto (Brazil), will be held concurrently with the third edition of the International Translation Symposium (SIT), from September 27th to October 1st, 2021.

Both events, this year in a totally on-line format, complement each other: to the tradition of the Translator's Week in providing space to discuss theoretical, critical, and practical issues regarding translation, and also for the formation of translators at the undergraduate level, together with the SIT, which was conceived especially in order to provide the opportunity to exchange experiences between professional and academic figures from Brazil and abroad.

This edition's theme, Plurality in translation: social and professional aspects, aims to hold discussions both about the academic setting and the labor market, exploring the cultural and linguistic diversity that imbues economic, political, and social spaces in which translation circulates. Thus, the submission of abstracts to the Organizing Committee addressing the following research fields will be particularly welcome:

- Translation Teaching
- Translation and Literature
- Audiovisual Translation
- Interpretation Studies
- Translation's Historiography
- Translation Theory and Criticism
- Translation, Culture and Identity
- Translation and Lexicon Science
- Translation, Technologies and Corpora
- Professional Translation Practice
- Translation, Interpretation and Sign Language

Modalities of Participation

All submissions must be submitted on-line. Participants will be able to register at the website www.semanadotradutor.com.br , in the following modalities:

- Non-presenting attendees (listener);
- Presenters (poster or oral presentation).

Abstracts must be submitted and papers presented in Portuguese, English, Spanish, French, or Italian.

Guidelines for the poster presentation

Participants must fill the application form on the website www.semanadotradutor.com.br and indicate the research field of the paper. Participants' personal data and their academic advisor's information should also be provided. The posters should follow the model template available on the website, which must be sent in PDF format to be digitally published so that attendees and reviewers can give comments and contributions.

Guidelines for the individual oral presentation

Participants must fill the application form on the website www.semanadotradutor.com.br and indicate the research field of the paper. The author's personal data, and, if any, up to two co-authors' information. The title and abstract of the work (250 and 300 words) should be Times New Roman, font size 12 throughout. The oral presentation sessions will happen synchronously on-line, via a platform like Google Meet, during the week of event, with a time-limit of 20 minutes per presenter.
